

A/V NEEDS

I'm very excited to come and speak to your group! I try to keep it pretty simple.

Here's what my typical A/V needs are:

- LCD and screen
- Sound hookup for my laptop
- A wireless lav or earset mic (preferred) or wireless handheld (still fine)
- Internet connection for my laptop (I can easily do without, but if it's possible, this brings in some fun interaction that audiences love!)

Other Miscellaneous Needs:

- Your cell phone so I can shoot you a quick text to let you know I made it to town, giving you one less thing to worry about. (or let you know if there's a problem, giving you one more thing to worry about. But hopefully the former!)
- Information on your group, who they are, their challenges, some of the inside jokes, current events, and how you want them to feel when they leave my talk.
- A hotel room with a bed, bathroom, and window (Gotta get my beauty rest. No window not a deal breaker.)
- A warm, purring cat ready for some snuggles in my hotel room (optional)
